

Chalet Ferme à Jules Morzine, France

What we love...

The incredible dining area – large enough to seat all 26 guests for meals en-famille. Priceless.

Combining rustic elegance and a sense of Alpine history with up-to-the-minute mod cons and dreamy mountain views, this luxury ski chalet with hot tub and sauna in the tranquil village of Le Lavanchy on the outskirts of Morzine ticks every box for larger groups.

Originally built in 1808, Chalet Ferme à Jules is a beautifully converted farmhouse which sleeps up to 26 guests in ten spacious en-suite bedrooms and offers vast communal living space. Surrounded with balconies, the views stretch from mountain heights right down to the valley at this luxury ski chalet. Head out here on a bluebird day and you'll want to make sure your camera is primed and ready to take some top notch mountain shots.

Despite offering large living spaces, this luxury ski chalet offers classic Alpine cosiness. The inviting corner sofas were designed with post ski lounging in mind. Hunker down by the fire with a glass of vin chaud, or retreat to one of the reading areas with a good book whilst the snow falls gently outside.

To ease aching ski legs, steal away to the private sauna or outdoor hot tub at dusk and burn those alpine views into your memory.

With room for everyone to dine together, Chalet Ferme à Jules has more than enough elbow room around its rustic dining table for everyone to break bread. Even better, you can then dunk the bread in some freshly prepared and steaming hot Fondue and Raclette. Délicieux.

After dinner, drift over to the honesty bar for a nightcap and board games. Then retire to your spacious en-suite bedroom at this luxury ski chalet and enjoy a peaceful slumber in preparation for another perfect day in the mountains.
