

Chalet V

La Tzoumaz, Switzerland

What we love...

The heated outdoor infinity swimming pool with mountain views...

For those who like their luxury ski holidays with all the comforts and little extras and all the powder, but less of the crowds and less hustle and bustle, Chalet V might be the gem they are looking for.

This luxury ski chalet in La Tzoumaz is not far from Verbier, but the bijoux ski resort is a little haven for those wanting to get away from it all. The chalet has a private ski room at the gondola, just a three-minute drive from the property and from there you can ski across to Verbier and explore any of the 410km of the Four Valleys area. La Tzoumaz also has a 10km toboggan run that comes into the village, snowshoe tracks and an ice rink so there's plenty other than skiing to keep snow bunnies happy. And there's a small but excellent selection of restaurants and cafes to choose from.

Chalet V itself is beautifully spacious. The five-bedroom chalet offers 12 guests plenty of room to relax and gather together, whether that's at the table enjoying gourmet food prepared by your chef, grouped around the impressive feature fireplace in the living area for bubbles and canapés, or slouched in the TV room in front of a good film. Plenty of large terraces give everyone somewhere to escape to for a little peace, preferably with a furry throw and a glass of something to warm you.

On quiet afternoons post-ski we suggest you make the most of the luxury spa facilities. The open-air heated infinity pool is something to behold. With nothing but the steam rising from the pool between you and the mountains, it's a fabulous spot to take in the views. There's also a sauna, steam shower and a large hot tub. After a few hours here, you'll feel like a new person.

Throughout the property rich, warm woods, neutral colour palettes, carefully designed lighting and luxury extras combine to create a truly cossetting atmosphere, and a welcoming feel you'll be pleased to return home to each day.

Eating

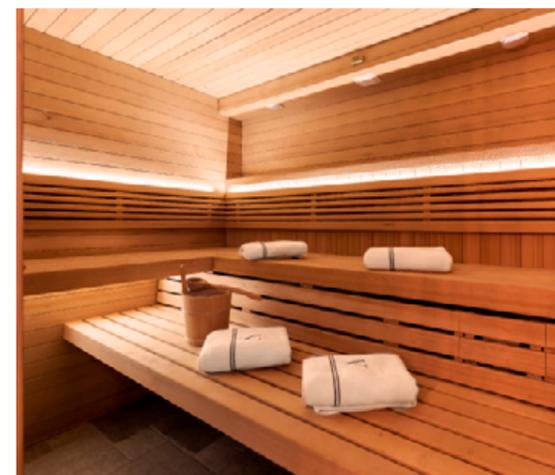

You'll be looked after by a catering team, ensuring everything is to your liking and glasses are always charged. On arrival, Champagne and canapés are served as you settle into your home for the week.

In the mornings, enjoy a leisurely breakfast of freshly baked crusty bread, croissants or pancakes, eggs however you like them and a selection of yoghurts, mueslis, cereals, fresh fruit and smoothies, as well as local charcuterie and cheeses.

When you return to your chalet, afternoon tea and homemade cakes are waiting for you. Savoury options can be arranged if you prefer.

Following afternoon tea, there's just enough time to relax and use the pool or spa facilities before getting changed for dinner, which is kicked off with drinks with canapés, followed by a four-course gourmet meal, which includes a Swiss-French cheeseboard and carefully selected wines to go with your meal.

Complimentary house spirits, beers and soft drinks are available throughout your stay. Your chef will be happy to discuss any dietary requirements, kids' menus and anything else that might make your stay more enjoyable.

Kids

La Tzoumaz is a hidden gem for families and you can access Verbier's skiing while skipping the lift queues.

Children are given a warm welcome at this family-friendly ski chalet. The open-plan design means there's plenty of space to play and sprawl, and a lift allows you to get around the property easily with little ones in your arms. There's room for cots for those travelling with babies, while older kids will enjoy the four-berth bunk room where they can escape the gaze of the grown-ups.

A separate TV room offers a space for them to curl up with a film and they're sure to love the 90s pinball machine too. An infinity pool means there's somewhere for them to splash and work off any energy they have left after a morning at ski school.
